

Title: Treatment of ocular disorders

Abstract

The present invention relates to a method for treatment of an ocular disorder, and especially retinal edema, comprising the administration to a patient of a compound that binds to at least one somatostatin receptor.